A Boston Firm.

One of the luxuries of a very recent birth is the physician for the hair. In Boston he is one of the most popular of the medical fraternity in town, and a woman can hardly be in the fashionable set without falling into the hands of this really charming man. If she goes to the most fashionable hairdresser and shampooer in town, it will not be even her second visit which will make her acquainted with what the scalp specialist can do for her lustrous adornment, and if she meets the fashionable doctor first her visit to the hairdresser and shampooer is only deferred. It makes no difference whether she begins with the doctor or the shampooer—she is sure to see the other at once.—Boston Journal.

Jean Bart's Last Descendant.

From Paris the death is announced of the last descendant—Mme. de Tersud—of Jean Bart, who lives in history as a famous French corsair, his portrait being still a common one on village inn sign posts. Bart was quite a romantic character and earned the national gratitude by accepting a commission to fight against the Dutch, though he had no connection with the French navy. Captured by the English, he made a daring escape from Plymouth, which so enhanced his reputation that Louis XIV gave him a position in the navy and empowered him to wear the flower-de-luce in his coat of arms. Mme. de Tersud, whose maiden name was Melanie Bart, was 72 years of age.—London Globe.

A "Rotary" Organist.

The following letter, written in Italian, has reached the finance committee of the Liverpool city corporation, whose duty it is to elect a successor to Mr. Best, one of the greatest organists of the century. Appended is a free translation of the missive:

I offer myself as a candidate for the office of organist at St. George's hall. For many years I have been thinking of organ in the streets of Liverpool and am a native. I am becoming tired of outdoor work and would like some inside occupation hence my application. The mechanism of the instrument could be altered to suit my style of playing—that is, the rotary style, which is so popular. Your humble servant, etc.

CELEBRATED

SUNDAY, JUNE 10, 1894.

TARIFF THIMBLERIGGING.

On May 23rd, 1894, the State Central Committee of the Silver party met in Reno. Fifty-four representative men from all parts of the State attended the meeting. These men were formerly identified with the old parties and many of them had been conspicuous in Republican and Democratic councils. They left those parties because of their double-dealing with the silver question, and pledged their best efforts to prevent the electoral vote of the Sovereign State of Nevada from being ever cast for any candidate for President who is not unequivocally in favor of the free coinage of silver at the historical American ratio. This committee issued an address to the people of Nevada, which, among other things, asserts:

We have witnessed for more than a quarter of a century the struggles of the two great political parties for power and plunder, while grievous wrongs have been inflicted on a suffering people, and for the last twenty years they have been playing the tariff game with the protection of the tariff and free trade shuttlecock to direct public attention from the actual coils of demonetization, which are poisoning the life of all the industries of the people.

The bugbear press of the State has been vainly endeavoring to make it appear that the "battledoor and shuttlecock" game has not been played with the tariff by the high priests of the old parties in Congress, but to prove the truth of the assertion, it is not necessary to go back more than a few days. Last week the sugar schedule of the proposed new tariff bill was before the United States Senate. The Democrats proposed to protect the sugar industry by a duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem on all sugar and an additional protective tariff of one-tenth of a cent per pound on refined sugar. The Republicans assumed the role of free traders, and, with the exception of Perkins of California, Manderson of Nebraska and Quay of Pennsylvania, voted to put sugar on the free list. Perkins and Manderson voted to protect sugar because it is produced in the States they represent, and Quay is said to have voted for it because Gorman of Maryland, one of the Democratic leaders, agreed to protect iron, steel and coal.

Is not that in itself, without further reference to the records of Congress, sufficient proof of the truth of what the Silver Committee asserted? Does it not show that the parties are playing not only battledoor and shuttlecock, but a regular thimblering, a now-you-see-it-and-now-you-don't game with the tariff? On one schedule the Republicans are protectionists and the Democrats free traders, while on others the Democrats are protectionists and the Republicans free traders. The game is to keep the people divided on tariff schedules so that Wall Street can control the financial policy of the country, whichever party is in power, and unfortunately there are a few persons in Nevada who encourage the deception, though fully aware of its object.

WORSE THAN TAMMANY.

A professor in one of the principal colleges of Philadelphia lectured in that city a few nights ago on municipal reform. He astonished some honest citizens and complimented the city officials by declaring that the best organized gang of thieves that ever existed, plunder the Treasury of the City of Brotherly Love.

The palm for plundering the Treasury was accorded Boss Tweed of New York City some years ago. He robbed the taxpayers, bribed Legislatures and courts, and for years held undisputed control of all departments of the city government. Finally forbearance ceased to be a virtue; the people were aroused, and under the leadership of Samuel J. Tilden and other eminent men, declared war against Tammany and sent its chief, William M. Tweed, to Sing Sing Prison.

Boss Shepherd, who had been observing Tweed's methods, introduced them in the city of Washington. As that city is under the special guardianship of Congress and appropriations were made from the United States Treasury for city improvements, Shepherd run things with a high hand. While enriching himself and the gang associated with him, he improved the streets of Washington. Fine thoroughfares with flagged sidewalks were built into the suburbs where Congressmen owned lots. As that improved the value of their property, the Representatives of the people cheerfully appropriated public money to be expended under the direction of Shepherd.

But in one of those tidal waves of indignation which sweep over the country periodically, the Congressmen who understood "addition, division and silence" were not returned. Men who knew not Shepherd dominated the House of Representatives, an investigation was made, much crookedness exposed, and Shepherd, fearing the fate of Tweed, became a voluntary exile. In Mexico he engaged in pursuits which were almost as profitable as handling the public money at Washington, and two or three years ago he visited that city and was given an ovation, though he appropriated and squandered more of other people's money than Tweed.

Now, according to the college professor, who doubtless knows whereof he speaks, Tweed and Shepherd were novices in the art of stealing compared with the head men of the Philadelphia gang. Some years ago the public got an inkling of their methods, but the matter was hushed up. The party with which the thieves affiliate control the government of the city and it could not afford to have the rascality of the ring exposed to the public gaze. As college professors have enlisted in the cause of reform and are enlightening the citizens, it is probable a storm of public indignation will arise in the near future and lay bare the corruption of the best organized gang of public plunderers that ever existed.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

All Quiet at Cripple Creek—The Deputies Break Camp.

CRIPPLE CREEK, June 9.—Peace prevails to-day. The militia is encamped at Bull Hill. The deputies broke camp and came to Cripple Creek. Sheriff Bowers says he will keep them here till the insurrection is broken. The Sheriff has gone to Bull Hill to consult General Brooks regarding arrests. He has warrants for 200 miners on charges of murder, assault to murder, grand larceny and inciting riots. The military leaders of the miners are missing, but the officers of the Union are still here. The mines will reopen next week.

Six leaders of the striking miners, three of them officers of the Miners' Union, to-day surrendered to the military authorities and are held in $5,000 bail each. They were wanted on warrants charging them with assault to murder. Three mines resumed to-day.

As Brewster Coffin was driving out to the Lake ranch yesterday morning his horse took fright at a dog that ran out into the road and whirled completely around, throwing Bruce with terrible force on the hard road. The horse started toward town, running about two miles, when she was caught by a footman, who got into the cart and drove back and picked up and brought him to town. Brewster was not injured seriously, but was badly shaken up. The sudden and quick movement of the animal did not give Bruce a chance to recover his lines or save himself.

REED'S BAIT FOR SILVER VOTES.

It May Catch Suckers, but Genuine Silver Men Will Not Nibble at It.

CANDELARIA, June 7, 1894.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—There seems to be great rejoicing in the "Silver Republican" journals on account of ex-Speaker Reed's article in the Fortnightly Review, championing silver for the avowed reason "that cheap silver is an effective stimulus to Asiatic ports, and this being the case we have got to consider silver and the tariff, not as two issues, but as one."

Has Mr. Reed just found that out? Governor McKinley of Ohio spoke at Boston, Massachusetts, at a gathering of Republicans on the 24th day of November last, after the Republican victories in the elections then just passed as follows:

"This year, in this State, as in Ohio, politics was business, and politics unitedly triumphed. It was discovered that business rests on confidence and certainty; and industry is only the agency to meet the wants of man. While the wants of mankind are the great factors in our industrial prosperity, the ability to gratify these wants is essential. * * * There can be but one of two results to follow the introduction of free trade or a revenue tariff. Either domestic production will be diminished, or the ways of labor will diminish, or both; and either or both are results which should meet prompt condemnation from the great body of American people."

Regarding the above as good doctrine, I directed a letter to Governor McKinley quoting the above, and asked him to let me know whether he included the silver miner among those whose industry and wages should not be diminished, and I received an evasive reply. Mr. Reed sees fit now to connect the tariff and silver into one issue. This will afford a choice of candidates at the National Republican Convention in 1896—Mr. Harrison, an international bimetalist, passively and tamely waiting for English and American bankers to set the ratio; Mr. Reed, an aggressive international bimetalist on the plan of John Sherman, and Mr. McKinley, no bimetalist at all.

I need not add that on the tariff question they are all sound. In classing Mr. Reed with John Sherman I am guided by the similarity of the action of the two gentlemen on the passage of the Sherman Purchase act, and also on the repeal of it.

To think that the author of an act should introduce a bill for the repeal of the same, because the opposition denounces that act, ought to ostracise the repealer forever.

The Democrats denounced the Republican legislation, known as the Sherman act of 1890, as a "cowardly makeshift," quickly you see Mr. Sherman introduce a bill to repeal it, and Mr. Reed puts his seal to the Democratic denunciation in a foreign Review in the following language:

"You recognize, of course, that the position has entirely changed in the past six months. The previous enormous compulsory monthly purchase of silver, a most vicious proceeding, went far to confuse men's minds."

Mr. Reed acknowledges that in the confusion he voted for the enactment of the bill, but he regained his ideas when the Democrats denounced the bill as a makeshift; and upon regaining his senses he voted for the repeal of it. I wonder if he is not trying to get even on the silver men. He is putting up a dose. It has already begun to rattle the brains of some of those so-called Silver Republicans. They are pointing with pride to the mass of confusion that Reed is putting up, nicely packed and labeled, "sure bait to catch silver votes within the Presidential campaign in 1896." He may catch some suckers, but genuine silver men will not even nibble. J. G.

EXTENSIVE ICE WORKS.

Arrangements Being Made to Build Them at Donner Meadows.

The JOURNAL is informed by James Mayberry that arrangements are being made to commence the erection of extensive ice works at Donner Meadows. These meadows are situated on the Central Pacific Railroad between Donner Lake and Truckee. Captain Joe Marzen of Lovelock owns the meadows, which are especially adapted for the purpose intended—the making and storage of ice. The meadows are situated high up on the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevada, where a good ice crop is insured every season. The location is convenient to the railroad and ice houses will be built so that the ice when stored can be loaded directly into the cars at the least possible expense for handling.

The promoters of the enterprise are men of means. They will build extensive ponds and erect store houses of 40,000 tons capacity. Mr. Mayberry is awaiting orders from Captain Marzen to commence operations. The latter has gone to San Francisco to visit the Midwinter Fair and on his return work will be commenced.

A Card from Mr. Wyatt.

EDITOR JOURNAL.—Mr. Bragg of the Gazette evidently labors under a grievous misapprehension. As I have not been in the JOURNAL office for nearly two weeks nor furnished copy, I fail to see how he can connect me with the issuance of the "A Parable" article. Moreover as my name is not on the published tax list, as is the case with hundreds of others, for me to sign "Taxpayer" to a personal article would on my part be suicidally absurd. What over connection I may have had with the matter has been purely clerical and without a shadow of animus, my abilities being for hire like those of any professional man. Mr. Alt will bear me out in the statement that on several occasions I spoke to him relative to county printing in behalf of the Gazette.

Concerning the Nathan transaction I supposed it had been settled by Mr. Alt, for whom I had done some prior clerical work and to whom I had spoken on the subject. As I have a distinct recollection of the sum of $3.90 unclaimed balance due me ever since I went up to Taylor Creek several years ago to write up the inauguration of the Honey Lake dam; and furthermore that I have been instrumental in procuring many advertisements and pieces of job work for the Gazette and never received and never was proffered the customary commission allowed by other newspapers, I think the balance is on my side. However, the two dollars referred to are at once forthcoming.

I would suggest to Mr. Bragg that he be not so hasty next time but reserve his ammunition for the individual with whom he is fighting. F. J. WYATT.

Jim Townsend.

Jim Townsend of the Home Index arrived last evening by the V. & T. on his way to the Midwinter Fair. Jim does not look or act a day older than he did twenty years ago. He is the same old Jim, chuck full of fun and —. He says he left the Index all set up and printed and full of local matter for three weeks ahead, and is going down below to look after his flying machine, which is one of the greatest inventions of the age, surpassing anything in the line of perpetual motion ever talked of. That in order to bring it to a stand-still after getting it once started you have to begin stopping it six hours before starting it. He says that he and his cat run the office; that it is a wonderfully smart cat; that it always comes when he whistles, and that if he whistled for it from Reno the cat would immediately start and come to him, although it is three hundred miles away. Jim will spend a day in Reno on his return.

Seriously Injured.

Dr. Koenig of Hawthorne arrived last night on the V. & T. accompanying a Mr. Warner, a cattleman at Soda Springs who had been thrown from a horse, sustaining an injury to the brain, from which he has been lying in an unconscious condition for sixty hours. Dr. Koenig will take Mr. Warner to the German Hospital at San Francisco, where it is expected the operation of trephining will have to be performed. Mr. Warner's people live at Petaluma, California. The injured man lies rigid on a cot and is moved from train to train, and it will be a miracle if he recovers.

Constitutional Scrofula Entirely Cured.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen: I wish to tell what Hood's Sarsaparilla has done for us, I will say that 3 years ago we had a beautiful boy born to us. When about six months old he took a sore mouth. Everything that was known as usual remedies in such cases was used. I had two doctors but all to no benefit. At the age of 11 months he breathed his last. Thus we laid

Our Darling Child in the grave. On Aug. 4, 1891, another boy was born unto us. At the age of two months he became afflicted with the same disease. I believed the boy's trouble was constitutional, and not common sore mouth. I procured a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and commenced to give it regularly to both mother and baby, and occasionally washed his mouth with a syrup of buck brush root. Improvement began at once. We have succeeded in eradicating the scrofulous blood from the system and to-day we are blessed with a nice, fat baby boy, eighteen months old. He is the very
